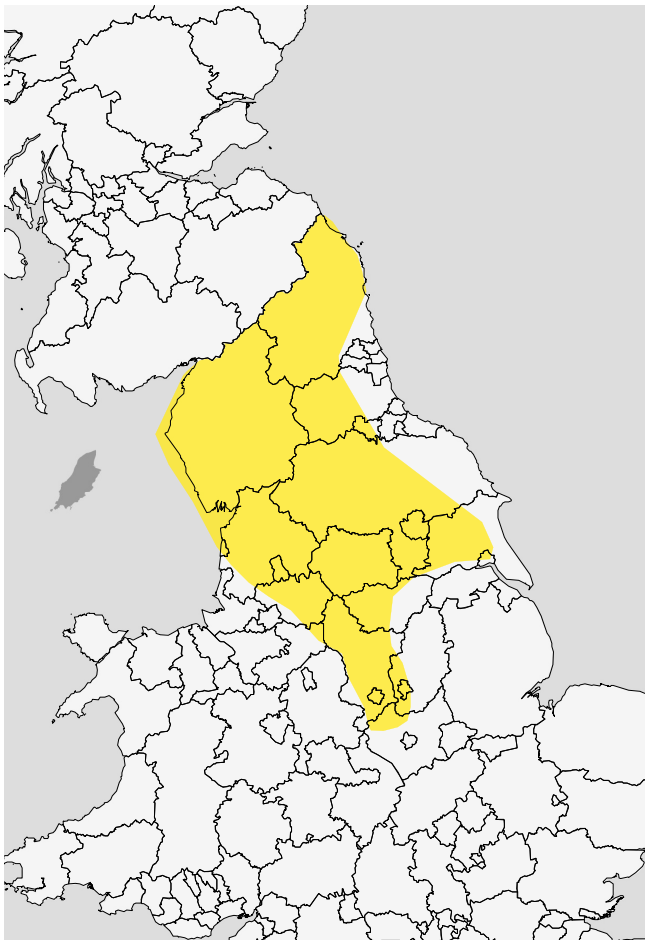
Yellow warning
Rain

Between
03:00 Wed 27 Dec 2023 and
18:00 Wed 27 Dec 2023



Heavy rain brings the potential for disruption to travel and a risk of flooding.

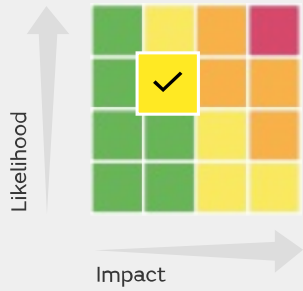
What to expect

- Flooding of a few homes and businesses is likely
- Bus and train services probably affected with journey times taking longer
- Spray and flooding on roads probably making journey times longer
- Some interruption to power supplies and other services likely

Further details

Outbreaks of heavy rain will continue to move northeastwards across northern England during today, with the rain quickly easing and clearing from the southwest during the early evening. Across the warning area 20-30 mm of rain is expected to accumulate quite widely. Over higher ground of the Pennines and the Lake District, 40-60 mm is likely with as much as 70-90 mm in a few locations by the end of this period. Strong winds may exacerbate any impacts from the rain along windward coasts and over high ground.

What should I do?



Medium likelihood of low impacts

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding. If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

The impact level has been updated from medium to low, in addition the warning has been extended into Northumberland, and removed from Staffordshire.
